Jackson's Cabinet, Sc .- A correspond ent of the Boston Gazette writes thus from Washington: "The most impor tant talk here, just now is, that the lea ding men in the majority intend to despatch the public buniness and have a short Session. When Mr. Randolph proposed to lay the motion of Mr. Barbour Horse, 3 years old, on the table, not again to be called up the present session, he expressed a hope, that the important business of the nation would be soon transacted, that the members might return to their homes at an early day. Mr. McDuffie, Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means, has expressed the same idea. Economy is to be the order of the day. And accor ding to all accounts, it is time such order had gone forth. It will be called radical ism, by some. That will not alter the generally believed, however, that if Gen. Jackson should be President, he will have as able a Cabinet as have ever been known. New York it is supposed will furnish the Secretary of State, or Minister to Eng land-Pennsylvania, the Secretary of the Tressury, in the person of the late effi cient and intelligent President of the U States Bank-South Carolina, the Secretary of the war department, in the person of one of her honourable sons, an old federalist, and now a distinguished mem-ber of Congress. POREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

Dates to the 23d Nov. have been received at New-York, from England.

The elections in France were likely to result unfavorably to the administration. Returns of 214 members had been obtained, out of which number it was calculated only 63 were ministerial. A change in the ministry, and in the policy of France, was therefore considered certain.

General Lafayette was one of the members elected. The eight constitutional candidates in ADMINISTRATION MEETING. The friends of the administration, and those who are opposed to the election of Andrew Jackson as President of the United States, are requested to attend at the court-house in the town of Salisbury, on Wednesday, the 20th day of February, 1828, to devise such measures as they may think best calculated to attain the end January 19, 1828.

Bank of Cafe Fear .- The recent exposition of the affairs of this institution, seems to have restored its bills, in some measure, to the confidence of the public ceased to pass as current here (Salisbury) as any others. But we perceive all the North Carolina bills are quoted in Petersburg. &c. Virg. at 10 per cent discount.

A quandary.—The post-master at Utica, New-York, having sent in his resignation, the candidates for the vacant office were so numerous, and so powerfully backed by recommendations, that the Administration at Washington were afroid to make an appointment, and returned the commission back to the person who had resigned. amission back to the person who had resigned it, Dr. Marcus Hitchcock. This indecision in the Administration. does not argue much in favor of their independence; but will rather beget a contempt and want of confidence in the people

Armely Precaution.—We observe, in the Oswego (New-York) Gazettee, an advertisement notifying the public that "Doct. H. Dewey" has set up business at Fulton, in that county; and among other things, he advertises for "fifty -to prepare tomb-stones for his patients, we presume.

Most Shocking.—At the execution of Levi Kelly, for ourder, at Cooperstown, New-York, on Friday, the 4th inst. a scaffold, capable of holding 1000 people, had been erected near the gallows, with the view of better accommodating gallows, with the view of better accommodating the spectators in witnessing the solemn ceremies. It having commenced raining, a great many people got under the scaffold as well as on it: and a few minutes before Kelly was swung off, it fell, and crushed those who were beneath; three or four persons were killed; some had their limbs broken, and others were sheck ingly mangled. Amodst this scene of horror and death, Kelly was launched into eternity. ----The 8th of January past, was celebrated throughout the country, with every demonstration of joy and patriotic enthusiasm. We shall be reafter notice some of the most interesting of the celebrations, the toasts drank, &c.

Mr. Monrot.-We felt well assired, when we first saw the names of the venerable Madison and Monroe put at the head of the Adams ticket in Virginia, that it had not only been done withconsulting those venerated sages, but con-to their inclinations and determinations. Monroe having been invited to unite with his fellow-citizens in the celebration of the 8th ins fellow-citizens in the celebration of the 8th of January, at Aldie, Virg. returned the following answer; which shows his prudence in standing aloof from every thing like a participation in the political strifes of the day:

OAR HILL, JAN. 7, 1828.

"Gentlemen : No person felt more sensibly than I did, the advantage and credit. derived to our country, from the victory gained at New-Orleans, on the 8th of January, 1815, or thought more highly of the gallantry and good conduct of the Commander, and of the troops who fought under him, in that action. Of this I have given many proofs, by attending like cel ebrations heretofore, and also by nominating him to several important trusts while I held the late office. If the celebration proposed, was confined to that object, I should readily accept the invitation. It is known, however, that a question is now depending, and with which every move ment, relating to the parties concerned is connected. In that question, I resolved at an early period to take no part, having had the most friendly relation with both the Candidates, during my service in the late office, and given to each the strongest proofs of confidence and regard, under a thorough conviction that they meri-ted them. The opposing candidate, performed likewise his duty in the important trust committed to him, with great ability and integrity, and entirely to my satisfacin Virginia, and the north eastern part tion. With these sentiments and feelings, of this state. Cape Fear bills have never for both, I retired, and it is my wish to preserve them. I cannot, therefore, take any position, which may by inference,

A desperate Drumbard.—It is stated in the Portsmouth (Obio) Fimes, that a man came to that town, whose thirst for liquor was so insatiable, that he suffered a dentist to pull a sound tooth, and sold it to him for 60 cents, with which he bought rum, and got drunk! Such a slave to his appetite would cut his throat for a gallon of whiskey, provided he could get it on 12 months

Minister to England .- Among others, William Minister to England.—Among others, William Gaston, Esq. of this state has been named as being likely to receive the appointment of Minister to England, in place of Albert Gallatin, returned. Mr. Gaston's talents and high standing eminently qualify him for the discharge of the important duties of that distinguished official trust; and it would be doing but sheer justice to North Caroline for the administration to conto North Carolina, for the administration to con fer the honor on one of her talented sons.

Early, or LATE, Vegetables .- The New-York Enquirer mentions, as a remarkable instance of early vegetation in that climate, that asparagus, fresh and full grown, was to be served up in that city on St. John's day, (27th Dec.) and also on the 8th January, at the celebration of the Victory of New-Orleans. It is certainly out of the common course of nature, for vegetables of this kind to be brought to perfection at that season of the year, in a latitude of 41° s. But is it not a misnomer to call that "early vegeta-tion" which is matured so late as the 27th December?

- 000000 We are compelled to omit, this week, a summary of the proceedings of Congress. We shall endeavor to make amends, on this score,

At almost every little meeting of the people, whether military or civil, that takes place in the state, a balloting is had on the Presidency. Such indications of the popular will are often deceptive, and are never sure tests of the voice of the wiers? The snock threw down the towers of the Cathedral, injured almost all the churches, the Palaces and other public buildings, and has reduced to a heap of ruins many of the private dwellings. Scarcely a house has been left uninjured, and a considerable number are not inhabitable. These calamities have been aggravated by the loss of lives; the pre-cise number of persons who have been killed we are unable to state, although we heard that on the day after, fifteen had been interred in the cemetery of this city. Great Jackson Meeting in Statesville.

We are advised by a friend in Statesville, that Green Peas were brought to, and sold in, the market at Savannah, Georgia, on the 5th day of January, inst. For ten day's past, we have had (at, and in the proximity of, Salisbury) cool, comfortable winter weather. We last week saw plumb trees in bloom. No snow yet! our next. So much has been said, and so confidently, of Iredell county being a strong had of the Administration, that people abroad bean to think such was the case; but the number that attended this meeting, and the spirit they manifested, will undeceive the public in relation to the sentiments of the freemen of that county.

POPTRY.

In a fair lady's heart, once, a secret was lurking; It tossed and it tumbled—it longed to get out; The lips half betrayed it by smiling and smirking; The Tongue was impatient to blab it—no doubt. But Honour looked graff on the subject, and gave it In charge of the teeth to enchantingly white; Should the captive attempt an clopem.
By giving the lips a most terrible bit

Twas said, and (was estitled) and Honey departed, Tongue quivered and trembled, but dared not rebel; When right to its tip Secret suddenly started, And, half in a whisper, estaped from its cell. Quath the teeth, in a pet, we'll be even for this And they bit very enartly above and beneath; But the lips, at that instant, were bribed with a kie.

And out popped the Secret in spite of the teeth

FASHIONS, &c. AT WASHINGTON. Extract of a letter from Washington, to the edito of the New York Enquirer, dated Dec. 26th.

The fashionable world is beginning to move. Inere have been already, several parties, and one or two of them, tolerably celebrated for the select beauty and fashion displayed on the occasion. It was a sort of opening of the season. The number of fine women sojourning here during the season, is not so very great, but they are very choice. There are some from the northern states, of great elegance and accomplishments; and, one in particular, from the Green Mountains, it is said, whose personal beauty and fine figure, even sink before the superior attractions of her mind and intellect. If your reader chooses he may transport himself, in imagination, to the ball room, and there picture her like the spirit of love moving through the mazes of the dance. Her figure is one of those magnificent forms which fancy pictures of the classic age. is full, round, and tall, and embellished with all the divine attributes of temale loveliness. Dignity has given elastity to her step, and fancy and feeling play round her beaming countenance. The very air in which such a beautiful woman breathes is full of fascinating qualities. She intects the whole atmosphere, and all seem to catch the contagion. Pennsylvania is also well represented. A most bewitching creature from "Susquehanna's shelvy side" has created a powerful sensation. Yet, many of the bachelors in Congress are made of whin stones. They are impenetrable; nothing can melt them. The snowiest neck, the most sparkling eyes, the most bewirching ancle, don't put so much anxiety into them as the simple taking of the yeas and nays. There are, however, honorable exceptions, It is remarkable, but nevertheless true, that the handsomest men in Congress, are the Delegates of the Territories, The corps diplomatique are the great leaders of the ton. They have the best cooks, the best wines, and give the best dinners. Col. Knapp is still lecturing to the blues; and I am told succeeds very well. What a pity he is not a Jackson man. He is a tellow of piquancy and anecdote-full of wit, humour, and taste; and never should have been Adamsy. I am told we are soon to have a charming widow from the south, who hates Tract and Colonization Societies; dances like an angel, and has a plantation with 300 wool heads. Her daily food is novels and scandal; and she piously offers up thanks every morning that she has lived in the age of Waverley, steamboats, and waltzing. Are there any of the bachelor fraternity with you that would venture

Last night, Secretary Clay gave his first drawing room. All the world was there. The beauty of the capital both stationary and transitory, shews itself to most advantage at the beginning of the session. High spirits, great expertations, novelty, and splendor, all concur to give zest to society. Towards the close, fatigue predominates. There were some splendid women present, and a great deal of apparent gaiety.

Mr. McDuffie is the chairman of the Ways and Means, and a entertained, that old Roanoke will brush him up. Clay, I am told, is a delightful fellow, and is the only one of the cabinet, that keeps up his spirits. He will make a charming piece of political ruins, anno domini, 1829, when old Hickory is planted at the west end, Adams soon expects to retreat to Quincy, to write his father's life. He began life a lecturer, and will end it a biographer. The people of the United States, are generous ; they would never think of refusing him an opportunity of exercising his filial love in his Low in stature, he is yet towering in father's biography. This is the only hope remaining, that his literary tasto will be corrected, in his lifetime, Jackson, I have no doubt, will subscribe for half a dozen copies of his book to the satisfaction of the people. You just by way of encouragement. Clav will head the opposition to Hickory's the decision on the sale of Bank Stock. administration. He will be much wanted; for really, the intellectual force of the Adams party, in the house, fidence to the holders of stock in the is so weak, that the talent of the Jack-National Bank.
